

TUSKON's Conference

ATBI's president Mehmet Ali Karamemis at TUSKON (Confederation of Businessmen and Industrialists of Turkey) conference began his speech with introducing himself;

"I am Mehmet Ali Karamemis, I am here as an Australian Turkish businessmen and representing the Australian Turkish Businessmen & Industry.

We want to share the values that Australia has given to us with our fellow business people by means of forming a bridge extending to Turkey. Our inducement for attending such organisations in Turkey is to attempt to set strong foundations for the bridge.

Australia and Turkey stand in special position. Both countries years ago fought in Gallipoli, but today the Nations display an example of amity within two countries.

The Australian Turkish Businessmen & Industry is an organisation whose members collective investments amount to 1.5 Billion Dollars. ATBI provides an invaluable base for future enterprise..

The President continued by advising the delegates that attended the conference, about Australia's demographics, labour force and various investment opportunities.

Mr Karamemis concluded his speech by stating that:

As ATBI, we are aiming to bring Turkish investors into Australia's affluence and easy trade environment.
